Divide et Impera
Our African Teacher
Russia's Navy
Catapulting Planes

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

JAPANESE STATESMANSHIP has adopted western ideas, this motto, DIVIDE ET IMPERA, "Divide and govern." That was the motto of Louis the Eleventh of France, who said the more his nobles fought each other the greater would be his power.

Japan divides China by forbidding Manchuria, where Japan has heavy interests, to join with China's national government.

Five nights in succession Great Britain's air forces will wage make-believe war against the great city of London, a war of deadly gas that could kill every human being in London or New York in a few hours.

One hundred and fifty airplanes will attack, while hundreds of machine guns, anti-aircraft guns, searchlights and sound detectors will see what they can do to meet the attack, instead of real gas or TNT bombs imitation bombs will be dropped.

In America we have a simpler plan, borrowed from a great African authority. We didn't borrow it from Hannibal, ancient Carthagenian hero, but from that noble denizen of the desert, the ostrich. When he is frightened, or sees danger, according to tradition, he buries his head in the sand. His theory is that if he doesn't see the danger the danger can't see him.

While Pilsudski, most powerful man in Poland, addressed his veterans Russia's navy was making a display of power off Lithuania. That annoys Europe.

Russia's navy isn't big, but it is more powerful than that of Germany since her defeat.

Russia owns some modern battleships, with names curious to us. One is called October Revolution. Another Paris Commune.

More important to Russia and Europe is the fact that aviation is taught in the Russian public schools and a Bolshevik flying organization, studying aeronautics, has 5,000,000 members.

Yesterday afternoon, the French liner Ile de France, bound for New York, 450 miles out, launched from her deck by catapult a powerful amphibian plane loaded with mail.

The amphibian leaving the Ile de France at 1 o'clock arrived in New York with the mail at 5:16 o'clock the same afternoon.

A pleasant, useful experiment. It wouldn't be so pleasant to have on the Pacific or the Atlantic ships from Europe or Asia launching swift airplanes, bringing explosive bombs and deadly gas bombs. Let's hope this catapulting of planes from ships will confine itself to mail delivery, at least until, if ever, we have a respectable fighting air fleet.

Herbert Hoover talked to 70,000 people standing before him, all of whom heard him distinctly, thanks to voice-amplifying devices. Millions on the Atlantic seaboard heard him over the radio before he was heard by those 100 yards away in the crowd from him. His voice, carried by electricity at 186,000 miles a second, went 3000 miles before his voice, carried by sound waves, could go 100 yards.

Twenty-four hours after Herbert Hoover spoke in California he was seen and heard on

"$10 HAIRCUT" LOSES THEM

When Etta and Freddie Callahan, 12 and 9, respectively, were given $10 with which to get a haircut—or two haircuts a week ago, they vanished. Their folks in Lowell hunted high and low for them. It was feared they had been kidnaped with the ten. Today they were found, minus the ten. They lived a week like Gypsies and had a good time.

FIND HEADLESS GIRL ON R. R.

Hoover Vote 63,875; Smith 61,642

FEAR SHE'S MURDER VICTIM

A girl's body, with the head severed and lying 50 feet distant, was found today on the New Haven Railroad freight tracks near C st., South Boston.

Police believe she may have been placed unconscious on the tracks in a gruesome method of murder although the possibility of suicide or accident is still being investigated.

The body was found by John Brandon, trackman, of Lake st., Brighton, while on his way to the South Boston freight yards to join his train crew.

Police were notified and they summoned Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath, who made a minute examination at the scene and then had the body removed to the southern mortuary.

Following a preliminary report by Dr. Magrath, Sergt. Charles Gordon of the Athens st. police division questioned night workers in that vicinity to learn if any sounds of a suspicious nature were heard.

The girl wore a wedding ring, other jewelry and was well dressed. She was about 20 years old.

One of the mysterious features of the case was the problem as to why she was in that neighborhood, a factory and warehouse district, during the night.

The place where the body was found by Brandon is a short distance from C st., near a road that runs diagonally from this street for the use of trucks and wagons going to and from the vegetables and provision terminal which is nearby.

It is about a quarter mile from Summer st. in a southerly direction. Railroad workers declared that

GOLD COAST INJUNCTION SOUGHT

Superior Court injunctions to end the police blockade of Brickbottom and the Gold Coast were sought in Middlesex County today by eight residents of Somerville and Cambridge.

A bill of complaint charging that the blockade was a violation of constitutional rights and a political plot, and that the searching of persons and property was the commission of an assault, was filed in behalf of the eight residents by Atty. William R. Scharton.

Robert T. Bushnell, district attorney; Alfred E. Foote, commissioner of public safety; John J. McBride, Cambridge chief of police, and Maurice A. Kendall, Somerville chief of police, "with their subordinates, servants and agents" are named defendants in the action.

ACCUSE BUSHNELL

The complainants, Antonio Dilorio, Michael Cotsangino, Ferdinand Chery, Philipo di Gerolmo, Vicenzo Podio, Ludgi de Cosero, Vicenzo Marcino and Andrew Pepoli, are described as residents, property owners and tenants lawfully engaged in business.

The surrounding of the districts by State and city police was characterized as "Gross and malicious abuse of the power" of Bushnell and Foote. The blockade has resulted in irreparable loss of business to the complainants, they charge, and Bushnell was accused of having stated openly that he knew the conduct of the police was illegal.

"Your complainants believe that the bill is worded that the said Bush-

'KIDNAPED' TOTS FOUND AFTER PLAYING 'GYPSY'

Lowell, Aug. 14 — Two worried youngsters remained "within bounds" in the Callahan home in Hesehery st. today—speculating with trepidation on the form and volume of punishment to be theirs.

They were Etta Callahan, 12, and her nine-year-old brother Freddie, who were returned home by police after being AWOL for a week.

During their absence, brother and sister were "gypsying" in the vicinity of Lowell, roaming about the city by day and sleeping by the banks of a brook at night.

A week ago the stepmother of the boy and girl sent them both to the barber shop to have their hair cut. Clutched in the girl's hand was a $10 bill with which to pay the barber.

That was the last seen of the youngsters until they were returned home by the police.

The $10 with spent for sodas, ice cream and candy. During the night the children slept on the banks of Hale's brook. The daylight hours

MERCURY HITS 90 AS NEW HOT WAVE COMES

A shift of wind from west to southwest today brought a heat wave to Boston and vicinity, with the official mercury reaching 90 at 1 o'clock, and showing every indication of going higher.

The hottest Aug. 14 in the history of the weather bureau was in 1919 when a maximum of 93 was recorded. This was not the hottest August day, as Aug. 1 and 2, 1918, achieved 99.

The official forecast held out little hope for immediate relief, being: Fair tonight and Wednesday; not much change in temperature.

TUNNEY PLANS TO WED HIS HEIRESS IN ITALY

New York, Aug. 14 (INS)—Under the romantic skies of sunny Italy Gene Tunney will marry the beauteous Mary Josephine (Polly) Lauder.

As a pleasing interlude to the former pugilist's walking tour through Europe with Thornton Wilder, the novelist, the marriage ceremony will be performed far from the prying eyes of an inquisitive American public. "Gentleman Gene" will sail Aug. 16. Miss Lauder, heiress to the Carnegie millions, will sail later.

And so was confirmed the report that Gene would not marry before his departure for foreign shores. This had already been reported on authority of members of a group of important personages who lunqueted the neophyte social registerite at one of those exclusive dinners.

Just what time Gene and Wilders are expected to arrive in Italy is not known; but it is presumed that the former heavyweight champion will insist on the shortest route to that country.

There had been a report that the wedding would take place in Scotland, or that the couple might wait until next winter and be married in the United States.

Last evening the retired heavyweight champion and fiance of Polly Lauder, $50,000,000 heiress, was feted at an engagement dinner tendered by members of the

New York, Aug. 14 (AP)—Dr. Harold M. Hays, director of the Park West Hospital, announced today that the hospital had no intention of permitting an attempt to separate "the Siamese Twins," Mary and Margaret Dilbe, now at the institution, unless such proceedure received "the endorsement of prominent men in the profession."

WILSON PLANS TO PADLOCK 125 HUB RESORTS

Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson will seek padlock injunctions against more than 125 properties in Boston, he announced today.

The addresses of these properties, with their listed owners, as obtained in a report, nearly completed, of cafes, night clubs, apartment houses and business houses in which three convictions for liquor violations have been made within the last three years.

The new padlock law which became effective June 16 is interpreted by the police department to mean the three years previous to enactment of the measure by the legislature. The convictions, they maintain, need not have been obtained since the law became effective.

IN COURT NEXT WEEK

A final check of division captains and the liquor squad is being made with a view to inauguration of the padlock proceedings in court next week, probably on Monday.

The record of the liquor squad captained by George W. Patterson alone contains the names and addresses of more than 100 properties coming under the stringent terms of the measure.

It is not probable, however, that all of these will be taken into court. The liquor squad yesterday made a tour of a number of places from which three convictions were secured and discovered that some at voluntarily had closed within th elast 48 hours.

CLOSED BY LANDLORDS

To cite particular, in South Boston, had been padlocked by owners of the building. The department is not expected to proceed against owners who of their own initiative have ousted liquor trafficking tenants from their premises.

Several property owners, police understand, have served notices to vacate on such tenants, accompanied by the warning that they will be reported to the commissioner unless they leave no sale get out."

As yet no such committals have been lodged with Wilson, however, but by next Monday the list of owners against whom the commissioner will proceed is expected to be greatly diminished by the voluntary acts of the property holders, themselves.

The complaint asks that the court enjoin the respondents, dispense the constabulary and police and end the stopping of persons and the search of vehicles.

Seven raids by federal authorities followed Bushnell's request to the local prohibition office for assistance in his war on the Brickbottom-Gold Coast liquor interests.

In one of the raided places the federal officers found three gallons of wine. The occupants of the building had fled and no arrests were made.

One arrest for drunkenness was made early today by State troopers attracted by off-key singing in a yard in Warren st. The intoxicated songster was to be arraigned before Judge Stone, who yesterday promised jail sentences for all drunks seized in the blockaded sections.

without a doubt a switching engine, drawing freight cars, struck and killed the young wife probably about 2 o'clock this morning.

Every night worker will be questioned, police said, to learn if anyone saw the girl alive. Those first questioned had not seen her and had heard of no one who did.

Railroad police believe it was an accident and that the victim was on her way to the freight terminal to see some employe whom she knew, perhaps her husband, but Boston authorities were not inclined to this belief and stressed the probability of suicide or murder.

SEEK HER IDENTITY.

They pointed out that it was possible for some one to have transported the body to that isolated place, far from any residential district, in an automobile and left it there, and until the medical examiner's report is made it could not be told whether she was alive or dead at the time.

The wedding ring was of platinum, and in addition the girl wore a gold ring with a rectangular black stone. Her hair was light brown, thick and long, her eyes were blue and her teeth were described by Dr. Magrath as natural and extremely good. She weighed about 128 pounds.

She wore a black satin coat with green lining and fur collar of light brown, a one-piece gray crepe de chine dress, gray silk stockings and black patent leather pumps with straps and buttons.

In her handbag were a nail file, powder compact and other articles. The medical examiner would not disclose the contents in more detail, explaining that while there was something of an identifying nature therein he wished to make doubly sure of it before making it public.

4 FALL RIVER STRIKE LEADERS SENT TO JAIL

Fall River, Aug. 14—Four of the leaders in the local textile strike, were today locked up in the House of Correction, unable to furnish bail after they had appealed six-month sentences on the charge of inciting to riot.

A fifth leader of the strikers, James P. Ried, of Providence, is out on $2000 bail.

The men who are in the House of Correction are Peter Hagelias of Boston, assistant organizer of the Textile Mills Committee, Samuel Wiseman of Boston, William Stroka of Passiac, N. J., and Jack Rubenstein, formerly of New York but now of New Bedford.

HUB MEN IN CUSTODY

The five men were found guilty of inciting to riot by Judge Edward P. Hanify, presiding in the Second Bristol District Court. All the men appealed the sentences pronounced by the judge but when the bail was fixed at $2000 in each case, only Reid was able to produce a bondsman.

Hagelias' appearance in court was the result of an incident which took place last Wednesday afternoon while he was leading a line of operatives towards the American Printing Company plant. He was stopped by Chief of Police Martin Feeney on Perry st. and was heard by several witnesses shouting to his followers, "Come on boys, let's jump them, let's get them."

Meeting Big Blimp in Clouds Gives Hub Flier a Start

Howard Stark, air mail pilot, repeted a new experience today when he arrived at the Boston Airport on his regular trip.

While over Newark, N. J., last night, bound for Hadley Field, Stark discovered beneath him a strange, sausage-like apparition which at first he took to be some sort of craft on the water.

It was dark and details were obscured, but after dodging around, looping and diving for some time, the flier determined it was a blimp, the first he had ever seen in the air at night.

At Hadley Field Stark learned the dirigible was the property of the army, making a night flight from New Jersey to New York.

The liner never let up from her speed of 23 knots. Everything about the takeoff and flight was successful, and probably other lines will soon equip their ships with these plane catapults.

Later the French line will extend the air service to passengers. The lone passenger in this first trip out was an official of the company, Pierre de Maglaive.

A catapult, weighing 60 tons and an Amphibian plane of nearly four tons were loaded aboard the Ile De France when she sailed from Havre. Commander Louis Demougeot went along as pilot. With him on the experimental flight today were R. Monrouzeau, radio operator, and A. Sarzach, mechanic.

The take-off was perfect. The plane carried fuel sufficient only for the 450-mile flight to guarantee, but in the future the steamship company plans to load more fuel for longer flights that will cut a full day from the time of transporting important transatlantic mail.

DOG MYSTERY OF THE FENWAY IS SOLVED

"Keeta" is a police dog with a mother's undying love for her young—and "Keeta's" sturdy boys. So explained away today the mystery of the suckling dog in the Fenway.

"Keeta" is home again, reunited with her two-months-old son, "Dusty," a yearning for which led her to leap from an automobile bearing her to a new home and to hunt four days the place where her pup is staying.

The search finally led the shy "Keeta" into Audubon rd., where she picked out the automobile of George A. Jones of Westland ave., his owner jumped into the machine and lay down out of sight until he returned.

According to Jones, he recently moved into a small apartment, too small to afford a big dog such as "Keeta" room to move around. So he presented "Keeta" to a friend who lives in the country, and the friend started home.

The machine had progressed only to Hemenway st. when "Keeta" bounded from the car and attempted to locate the apartment again. Failing, she took to the Fenway grasses to avoid recapture.

After the friend had reported the dog's vanishing and a policeman had told Jones of the strange dog in the grass, Jones went to the Fenway and whistled. But "Keeta" still fearing recapture, fled to the streets.

Upon coming to Jones' car, the police dog apparently decided to take a chance, and she leaped in. Jones found her in the machine and took her home where there was a joyful reunion with the pup.

But Jones, for the original reason, never knew "Keeta" and she will be handed over to the friend again.

STATE SEEKS '26 LEVY FROM EDGAR DAVIS

Massachusetts has started suit against Edgar B. Davis of Brockton, it was learned today, for income taxes and interest assessed in 1926, amounting to approximately $400,000.

In addition, the suit will determine whether Davis will pay a tax in Massachusetts on 1927 income.

Davis claims, it is understood, that about the end of December, 1926, he transferred his domicile from Brockton to Luling, Texas, and that on account of this change he is not subject to the Massachusetts income tax law.

The State contends that Davis' real home has always been in Brockton; that he continues to live there, and that the change of residence to Luling is unsupported by any actual change of domicile.

Under ordinary procedure, Davis would be required to pay the tax and then attempt to recover what he believed had been wrongfully assessed. But wishing to relieve Davis of the burden of paying such a large sum before an adjudication of the question of his legal residence, Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long has taken the view that the suit would be instituted by the State.

Davis, it is learned, has personally accepted service of a writ returnable in the Suffolk Superior Court in October.

Drama Is Filmed in Newspaper Making

Did you ever wonder how a newspaper is made?

Thousands of persons have, and yet few outside of newspaper offices have the slightest conception of how it is done.

Next week, an opportunity will be afforded for everyone to see just how a newspapee is put together when the fascinating and thrilling two-reel film, "The Making of a Newspaper," will be chosen as part of the regular bill at Loew's State theatre.

The human drama that is crowded into a newspaperman's life keeps the interest of the spectator in every foot of this novel film, the scenes of which were "shot" in the plants of Hearst newspapers throughout the country.

Large delegations from leading Boston civic organizations will witness the picture next week as guests of the Boston Evening American and the management of Loew's State theatre.

These organizations include Boston Rotary Club and Women's City Club of Boston, whose officials are enthusiastic over the prospects of having their members see a film of such high educational value.

CALL PARLEY TO SOLVE RADIO PROBLEM

Washington, Aug. 14 (INS)—Another effort to work out an equitable distribution of broadcasting frequencies on the North American continent will be made August 20, when American, Canadian, Cuban and Mexican radio authorities will confer here.

Commissioner O. H. Caldwell was today designated to represent the United States.

Broadcasting is expanding rapidly in all these countries. Listeners all over North America are demanding action which will eliminate international interference.

Canada has six exclusive wave lengths and shares time on six others. Broadcasters there, with about 80 stations, have represented they are entitled to 12 exclusive channels and desire to share time on a number of others.

Neither Cuban nor Mexican stations have exclusive channels and there is considerable interference between them and those in Southern and Eastern United States. Cuba has nearly 50 stations operating between 200 and 550 meters, while there are 18 stations in Mexico, one in Haiti and one in Salvador.

Broadcast programs from Cuba are readily picked up during the winter by listeners east of the Mississippi. The type of entertainment transmitted has a peculiar charm of great appeal to American listeners, although interference robs the programs of their greatest value.

Programs from Mexico are not so frequently received, although radio officials there feel that with a few exclusive wave bands American listeners might get the benefit of them.

There are approximately 500 stations operating in North America between 200 and 550 meters, with but 96 wave channels available.

ACCEPTS FLIER IN NIAGARA FALLS HOP

Holyoke, Aug. 14—To a local girl today goes the honor of having been wooed and won in an airplane. And it was soaring at the time of the proposal and acceptance over no less a love spot than Niagara Falls.

The girl is Edna C. Herder, connected with her father in the coal business in this city, and prominent in local women's organizations.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Herder, of Allyn st., have just announced her engagement. She is to wed M. L. "Jack" Ayres, formerly of Flagstaff, Ariz., and now in business at Springfield.

Miss Herder admitted that she became engaged while on a long distance flight with Ayres from Buffalo, N. Y., to the Northampton airport near this city.

Ayres was flying a new plane from Colorado Springs back to Springfield, where he is now located.

He invited Miss Herder to ride with him from Buffalo and she accepted the invitation. She went by train to Buffalo and the trip by air here was made in four hours.

Ayres circled over Niagara Falls several times at a height of 3500 feet and the couple exchanged notes. It was during this exchange that they pledged their troth.

Miss Herder is active in local society. Ayres is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma and served in the air service during the World War.

AUTHORS WILL BURY LAMB OF SONG FAME

Providence, Aug. 14—Instead of a grave in "Potter's Field," which receives the pauper, Arthur J. Lamb, famous composer of popular songs, is to be given a funeral befitting his genius. This was announced today.

The Providence authorities have been informed that the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers will take charge of the funeral and burial.

This is the result of a letter from a lifelong friend of Lamb, the missive being received while Lamb was on his death bed at the Miriam Hospital.

This letter gave the clue which resulted in the interest of the society. The body, which faced the fate of the friendless pauper, is to be taken to New York City, and given its tribute there. A representative of the society was due to reach Providence today.

IDENTIFY 2 AS SOMERVILLE ROBBERS

Identification of William Troy and Phillip Cronin, alleged robbers of all-night lunchrooms, was made in Somerville District court today in connection with two Somerville robberies.

They were named as the men who robbed the cashier of Gaynor's restaurant on Middlesex ave., near the Ford plant, on the night of June 18 when 20 customers were in the place, getting away with $70.

They were also identified as the robbers of the Gulf filling station at Broadway and the Northern Artery where they are alleged to have taken $20.

The second robbery occurred on the night of August 8, when Troy and Cronin are alleged to have staged a series of holdups in various parts of Boston, climaxing in their arrest in Allston after a desperate battle with Patrolmen Peter DiSessa and Albert Drown.

In Somerville court, where they were taken under guard from Charles st. jail, they were held for the Grand Jury on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon and robbery. They pleaded not guilty. They face charges of robbery while armed in several of the Boston holdups.

70,000 VOTE ON BIG RAILROAD STRIKE

Cleveland, Aug. 14—Middle Western States face a railroad strike today. Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and of the Order of Railway Conductors are holding sectional meetings for the purpose of voting on the strike question.

Approximately 70,000 railroad employes and roads owning about 93 per cent of track mileage west of Chicago are affected by the threatened strike.

The strike ballot follows the failure of efforts, aided by the Government, to arbitrate the issues in the question.

The strike, if called, would affect only those Western railroads which have not granted the men's demands for increased wages. Labor leaders say all other railroads have granted the demands.

The men vote on the original demands of the labor organizations for increases ranging from 10 per cent to yard men to 18 per cent for trainmen and conductors. Whitney said.

The arbitration proceedings failed when the unions refused to accept a 7½ per cent increase on condition that they abolish certain working rules.

Railway Men Accept $14,000,000 Wage Cut

London, Aug. 14 (INS)—Every man employed by English railways—approximately 480,000 in number—from the executives down to the humblest station porter will receive a reduction in wage or salary as a result of the financial crisis confronting the four great railway systems.

The men voted to accept a 2½ per cent wage cut while the executives acted voluntarily in slicing their own incomes. The wage cut will save the companies approximately $14,000,000 during the next year. Railway receipts so far in 1928 are $30,000,000 under those of last year.

TELEVISION TO BE BROADCASA

London, Aug. 14 (INS)—Television broadcasting on a large scale will be started in England in the autumn, if the predictions of John L. Baird, the inventor, are fulfilled. Baird's company is now turning out television receiving apparatus at moderate prices, and actual broadcasting will start as soon as certain mechanical arrangements have been completed.

"Televisors will be put on sale at the end of September," Baird said today. "They will cost about $125, and will serve the double purpose of radio and television receivers. The pictures will be seen on a round screen eight inches in diameter.

"At first we will broadcast only the head and shoulders of speakers and actors from our own studio, but later we will enlarge our plant to permit the broadcasting of groups, with the possibility that complete stage plays can be sent out within a short time."

MOTHER HELD FOR TRIAL IN 'PETRIFIED BODY' CASE

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 14 (INS)—Charged with misuse of the mails in the bartering for her son's "petrified body," Mrs. Alice Sawyer, apartment house manager, pleaded not guilty and today awaits continuance of her case Sept. 17. Mrs. Sawyer is said to have received $32,000 from a cousin, John L. Stutz, Meridan, Ct., to exploit the sale of the body of her 21-year-old son, who died in 1923.

Government authorities claim the body was never removed from its resting place in El Centro Cemetery. Officers declared they had more than 40 letters in which Mrs. Sawyer is purported to have negotiated for the sale of the body to scientific institutions.

'SIT DOWN' IS HOLDUP ORDER

Newark, N. J., Aug. 14 (AP)—Tying the hands and feet of four employes, three men today held up the Branch Brook office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on Bloomfield ave., and escaped with $2588.

The bandits surprised the office workers shortly after the place opened. They ordered the cashier, clerk, canvasser and a girl stenographer to line up and throw their hands above their heads.

"Now sit down on the floor," was the next command, and the employes were all bound securely, hand and foot.

The money was done up in bundles ready to be taken to the bank and the bandits stuffed the packages in their pockets, gave a final warning against an outcry, and dashed to the street.

CREATORE SCORES IN NORUMBEGA CONCERT

Creatore, the shaggy showman of the musical world, together with his band, assisted by Pauline Talma, soprano, and Marie Roselli, harpist, scored a sensational hit at Norumbega Park, yesterday when the first famous organization was heard in the afternoon and evening in specially arranged concerts.

It is hard to know whether the same organization playing the same selections, but without Creatore conducting would weave the same spell over the audience as the Italian musicians do when the fiery, temperamental leader is waving his baton. He is a whole show in himself, for he injects himself into every number, threatening, pleading, coaxing and apparently even beguiling his huge band into producing beautiful music.

RAMS AUTO FOR SPITE; DIES OF BROKEN NECK

New York, Aug. 14 (AP)—A taxi cab driver died today of a broken neck, received when he drove his cab, as a retaliatory measure, against the car of a man with whom he had just had a fight.

The dead driver, Frank M. Paar, and Christopher R. Murphy engaged in a fist fight shortly after midnight, when they quarreled over Paar's parking his cab next to that of Murphy, in front of a restaurant in the midtown section. The cab driver was getting much the worse of the battle when police interfered.

Separating the two men the patrolmen started them off in their cars in different directions. As the policemen walked up the street they saw Paar's taxicab whirl around the corner and start in the direction of Murphy's car.

Murphy, unaware that Paar was following him, stopped his car in 53d st., just short of a three-foot sewer excavation.

Just as he stopped Paar's car crashed into his, knocking it into the excavation. The taxicab hung with its front wheels in the hole.

The taxicab driver stepped from his cab and collapsed at the feet of the patrolmen who had arrived in a commandeered car.

A police surgeon said Paar died of a broken neck, probably caused by the sudden jar when his car crashed into Murphy's car. Murphy was uninjured.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

SOCIETY SPONSORS MYSTERY PLAY AT MARIEARDEN, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

"Adam," Chosen From Mediaeval Stage, to Be Given in New Hampshire Outdoor Theater

"MARIEARDEN" IS A NAME TO CONJURE WITH UP ABOUT PETERBOROUGH, where summertime life among the socially consequential is lived without ostentation, but never lacks its cultural influences. At Mariearden, through full many a season, the arts have been wooed in surroundings the very quintessence of sylvan beauty. Artistic achievement has followed artistic achievement, until Mariearden ites have become imbued with aspirations quite altitudinous. These eventuate in the coming presentation of "Adam," set for August 16 through the 21st and having august churchly sponsorship along with social patronage of the highest.

PRESENTATIONS AT MARIEARDEN ARE BY way of being a tryout, so that when autumn comes "Adam" may be given in Washington before the entire House of Bishops, as part of new Washington Cathedral dedication. Meanwhile society spending its warm weather leisure in the lovely Southern New Hampshire hills will probably give "Adam" the seal of its high approval whether or no the production of this 12th Century Mystery play meets churchly approbation. Sponsors lending the glamor of their names and their personal support are an interesting coterie.

SUCH PEOPLE AS MR. AND MRS. JASPER WHITING, social lights who often desert Mayfair for the earth's farthest places and least known ports, are sponsors; likewise Mrs. William Brooks Abbot, member of the social aristocracy never merely spectacular; Mrs. John Jay White, whose place in the New York social sun brings her into contact with many circles; Mrs. George A. Morison of Chicago, art patron, all are sponsors. The Hon. Robert Bass and Mrs. Bass give to the list a fillip of the always sought after social flavor.

MR. AND MRS. JEFFREY R. BRACKETT, MRS. LUCIUS RYCE of Beacon Hill, Mrs. Guy Currier, but for whom there would have been no Mariearden at all—these and many others are samples of the audience that will gather in Mariearden's beautifully done outdoor theater for this much-discussed mystery play. Even were a Mariearden presentation completely a failure, which is, of course, not to be thought of, audiences would be more than a measure repaid at viewing the enormously satisfying setting of the theater. Critics pronounce it a gem, and those not presuming to a critic's pose rave over its charm.

WEDDING CARDS, FORMAL BLACK AND WHITE HARBINGERS of autumn weddings, are fluttering down in the morning's mail in smart households. From Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, of Beacon and Cohasset, come several hundred examples of what's what in bridal stationery for the autumn, bidding their friends' attendance at Miss Cecile Bancroft's marriage, when that popular Younger Set member becomes Mrs. William C. Cox. And Bancroft family interest being what it is, the Church of the Carillons in Cohasset is to be the nuptial edifice.

UP ON THE HILL ABOVE COHASSET VILLAGE THE BANCROFTS have a seashore home spaciously hospitable. It is the sprawling New England type of house that fits an exactly two landscaped walled gardens and broad lawns about it provide exceptional at fresco possibilities, after wedding vows are given and carillons have pealed and wedding guests have motored up to Deer Hill to offer the young people felicitations. There is a particularly charming terraced vista, sure to delight wedding guests, with sea blue pool glinting amid the fragrance of old-fashioned posies.

AWAITING THE NEWLYWEDS, UP ON COHASSET'S SIGHTLIEST hill, there is a charming, brand new home. Doting parents have built for their adored daughter a Dutch colonial house and about it have had put just the touch of landscape gardening to make a perfect whole. The ceremonial is on September 8, at high noon. But even the whirl of preparations for this most important step in a girl's existence does not mean that Miss Bancroft relinquishes her interest in King Horse. The prides of the Bancroft stables are Miss Jessie Bancroft's special path.

AND THESE HANDSOME EQUINES WILL BE PUT THROUGH their paces, in the high perfection of their ring manners, with Miss Jessie Bancroft riding or driving them at the Cohasset Horse Show next Friday and Saturday. Lincoln Menard, small son of the Ralph Menards, is a young hopeful who has caught the horse show fever of enthusiasm that pervades all Cohasset and thereabouts. No pony for that youth when it comes to the show ring. He demands a horse to put through a ring performance when Cohasset children under 13 are bugled into the ring.

HUMAN DRAMA TOLD IN GREAT NEWS FILM

British freight steamer Antigua, in mid-ocean, and the rescue of the crew by the United States Steamship President Roosevelt—is shown. The film story skips from the thrilling rescue in a gale, to the newspaper office when the "flash" comes.

Busy scenes in the editorial department as the story is rushed in short "takes" from a "rewrite" man to the city editor, from him to the "head of the desk," down the chute to the composing room where the story is "set up" on linotype machines, and thence through the various other departments, until it appears on the street in papers hot from the press—all are shown in this film.

How radio, telegraph, cable and telephone are utilized in a newspaper office are vividly shown as well as the amazing invention whereby photographs are transmitted by wireless.

TIME ESSENTIAL

Time is one of the most essential things in getting out a modern newspaper. Every possible invention that may save even seconds of time is utilized in Hearst plants to place the news of the world before readers in record time. All these devices are shown in the film.

After seeing "The Making of a Newspaper," no one will pick up a newspaper again without a deeper realization of the romance, danger and initiative that are part of the daily life of a modern newspaper plant in this country. He will also have a fuller appreciation of the numberless scientific inventions that are constantly used in a modern plant.

Intimate pictures of some of the men and women whose parlors are by-words in the newspaper world give an added touch to the picture. William Randolph Hearst, whose 28 newspaper plants were used in filming the picture, is shown at his California ranch.

Those who like the "funnies" will be pleased at the closeups of Jimmy Murphy, Russ Westover, Goldberg, Ike Bek, and others whose creations make them laugh daily.

HEARST BUYS GOULD SITE

New York, Aug. 14—Benjamin Winter has announced the sale to William Randolph Hearst of the former Frank Jay Gould riding academy site at 217-19 Fifty-seventh st., running through to 216-24 West Fifty-eighth st. The sale was consummated Monday through Hubert & Hubert, brokers in all of Mr. Hearst's real estate transactions.

The property, which was held at $1,300,000, covers an area of approximately 15,000 square feet. It fronts 53 feet on Fifty-seventh st. and 110 feet on Fifty-eighth st. It is located just east of Broadway.

PLANS UNKNOWN

While no announcement was made of Mr. Hearst's plans in connection with the purchase, it is believed that he will utilize the property, as part of the extensive development projects he has under way in this section, to house his publishing enterprises. The Hearst real estate holdings in Columbus Circle are heavy, dominating the entire locality. The most recent activity of the publisher in this section was the building completed at Eighth ave. and Fifty-seventh st., bringing all the Hearst magazines under one roof.

LAND BOUGHT IN JUNE

Mr. Winter purchased the property from the Gould interests in June, 1925. Showrooms of the American Car & Foundry Company occupy the majority of the space of the three-story building with a 50-foot frontage, which runs through from Fifty-seventh to Fifty-eighth st. and which was the original site of the famous old academy. Torve Brownstone houses make up the balance of the Fifty-eighth st. frontage, which Mr. Gould bought, as a protection for his stables.

Morris E. Gossett represented Mr. Winter in the Gould sale and Kouta, Kirchway and Engel were attorneys for the Hearst interests.

FEAR FOR SHIPS IN NEW GALES OFF FLORIDA

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 14 (AP)—The fourth tropical disturbance within a week was gathering force in the Caribbean today as it swept northward while the Florida gale coast prepared with the destruction and human toll in the wake of its passage.

The east coast of the state was connected from Miami northward only with emergency telephone and night although the fate of two large vessels, the Juniata, fifteen days overdue, and the Nyanza, reported aground at St. Petersburg, was not determined. A government cutter was hastened aground to the east coast, the Lake Okeechobee region, and at Palm Beach, where communication with the mainland had been cut off by the storm.

Jacksonville, Aug. 14 (AP)—Reports from Miami, Fort Lauderdale and Palm Beach, Fla., early today indicated that the tropical storm which struck the Florida east coast yesterday had spent its force. Communication with the cities was restored and no further damage was reported.

Hole-in-the-Wall, Great Abaco, Bahama Islands, Aug. 14 (AP)—Her 73 passengers have been landed by tug at Nassau and the vessel was expected to get off the sand today.

4 Held in Egyptian Row

Cairo, Egypt, Aug. 14 (AP)—Four men, including Hassan Yassin, student leader and former deputy, were arrested for a disturbance at the railroad station on the departure of Mohram Ebeid, former cabinet minister, for London. Former Premier Nahas Pasha protested against the arrests.

Britain "Drier" Than New York—Listen to Courtney

Capt. Frank T. Courtney, British aviator who has been visiting in Boston since Saturday, hopped off for New York from the Boston Airport today in his Avro-plane for a two-day stay.

Capt. Courtney, who laments the lack of ale in this country, remarked just before starting that New York was wetter than England.

COULDN'T LIVE ON TIPS; SLEW GIRL FOR $1.19

Chicago, Aug. 14 (AP)—Evanston police today wrote "solved" across the case of Jennie Meta Constance, a teacher, slain near Northwestern University campus last Tuesday night.

David Shanks, a young negro bootblack, was held as the slayer, police said he had made a complete confession.

Robbery was the motive Shanks gave when police asked him why he had struck down Miss Constance shortly after she started down a dark street from the university library.

"All I get for shining shoes is tips," he told officers, "and that's about $8 a week. That ain't enough, and that's why I set out to rob some woman last Tuesday night. I guess it wasn't worth while, for all I got was a wrist watch that I sold for $1.19."

It was the watch that led police to Shanks. A jeweler notified the police that wrist watch had been brought to him for removal of the initials "J. M. C." Officers were waiting when Lebrant Bastian, a youth whose father operates an Evanston shoe shine parlor, called for the timepiece. Bastian told of buying the watch for $1.19 from Shanks, whom his father employed.

Shanks was arrested as he was polishing a customer's shoes.

Following the negro's arrest and his statement to officers, he was taken secretly from the North Shore suburb but later brought back after a strong guard had been placed about the Evanston Jail. A threatening crowd of about 1000 persons had gathered about the jail earlier in the evening, following news of the arrest.

ADD THRILL FOR 'OUR GANG'

The hundreds of children who will take part in the filming of the local "Our Gang" comedy at Norumbega Park three days next week, beginning Monday, will have an added thrill.

A prize is to be awarded to the child proposing the most appropriate names for the two young cub bears, that are now in the zoo there. These young cubs are the special pets of Samuel Stevenson, superintendent of the zoo.

When the children who are to participate in the Boston Evening American's contest picture arrive at Norumbega Park, they will be given slips of paper, on which they are to write the names they think best for the little bears. Judges will pass upon all the names and award a special prize to the youngster suggesting the most appropriate.

The bear cubs will be on hand to welcome the kiddies, when they go to the park and will also take part in some of the scenes.

A special motorcycle escort from Boston police department will accompany the fleet of new de luxe model Chandler automobiles, which will convey the principals, directors and others to Norumbega for the filming of the picture.

A "no accident" campaign conducted among employes of the Roxbury plant of the General Baking Company during July resulted in a spotless record, according to announcement by the company today. There was not an accident that involved negligence on the workers' part, although 200 employes worked 45,000 hours and 60 wagons and trucks operated 85,000 miles in that period. A. A. TOWNS ARE LOOTED BY FLEECED MINE WORKERS

Rio Janeiro, Aug. 14 (AP)—Police forces in the diamond districts of Matto Grosso and Goyaz are trying to suppress rioting and looting by disgruntled prospectors. The prospectors claim they were sold "fool" grubstakers in counterfeit money. Several hundred of them turned bandits and looted towns and burned houses. Murders are reported to have occurred. Several skirmishes have taken place between bandits and police.

SWOONS AS HE FINDS HIS AUTO HURT HIS SISTER

Camden, N. J., Aug. 14 (AP)—When Ia recognized the little girl his auto had knocked down last night near Ateo, on the White Horse pike, as his sister, Eugene Scott, 20, fainted in the roadway beside her. He was quickly revived and drove her to a hospital, where it was found she had a fractured skull. Bystanders said the child, running home with several other children, suddenly jumped in front of her brother's car.

Until the convention I hopefully waited
But McNary and Haugen were not nominated.
The Demorrats promised me two dollar wheat
But now they are passing the hat in the street.
I am slapped on the back by the G. O. P. bosses
But that doesn't make up my annual losses.
They say that my needs they will surely remember
If only I'll go to the polls in November.
They say I'm a peach and a trump and a brick,

PARALYZED, GIVES BLOOD FOR LIVES

CRIPPLE IS EPIDEMIC HERO

A good newsboy is Justin W. Crosby of 35 Upton st., South End, but as a samaritan he is even better.

Twenty-two years ago Justin was stricken with infantile paralysis, the cruel memory of which he bears in his crippled legs.

And so when the call came for human blood, particularly from those who were once visited with the disease, for saving the lives of Waltham and Watertown victims and for checking the epidemic, Justin answered.

Doctors at the Canton Hospital, where he was one a patient, took a quart of his blood Sunday afternoon. Sunday night, however, Justin was on the job at his new stand at West Newton st. and Huntington ave.

During the hours of the day Justin sells Boston Evening Americans at Chalmers st. subway entrance.

Nothing like doing a good deed when it presents itself, Justin says is his philosophy. Maybe that is why he sells so many newspapers.

The chance to give his blood came when he received a letter from the hospital authorities asking for the sacrifice.

Justin W. Crosby, crippled newsboy of 35 Upton st., South End, knows the misery that infantile paralysis leaves in its wake, for 22 years ago it crippled him

HEAD TOO HIGH UP; KILLED

Frank Holston, 40, of Richardson st., Brighton, a brakeman employed by the Boston & Albany Railroad, was killed early today as the freight car upon which he was riding passed under the Washington st. bridge of the Utica st. yards.

According to the conductor, William H. Marsten, who found Holston lying unconscious on the roof of the car, the brakeman failed to lower his head as the train passed under the bridge. He was taken to City Hospital where physicians pronounced him dead.

NEW PARALYSIS CASES SPREAD OVER STATE

With four new cases reported in Watertown, the State Department of Public Health was informed today that the infantile paralysis epidemic, which started in Waltham, has spread to other sections of the State as far west as Pittsfield.

Of 12 new cases reported to the State health department, four were in Watertown, making a total of 42 since July 1 in that town, one from Waltham, where the total is 32; two from Boston, making a total of seven; two from Orange, total four; one from Reading and two from Pittsfield. The Reading and Pittsfield cases are the first reported from these places.

The new cases in Watertown came at a time when health officials were hopeful the epidemic had reached its peak.

Thomas Murphy, eight, and his sister Anna, four, of 2 Kimball rd., and Philip Whitehill, 12, of 24 Gilbert rd., whose brother died a week ago were taken to the Homeopathic Hospital. Fred Perkins, one, of 7 Gilbert st., was removed to the Children's Hospital.

Dr. Edward Smith of the Homeopathic Hospital, speaking before a group of doctors, nurses and local residents, praised the efficiency and foresightedness with which Watertown doctors have been meeting the emergency.

GOOD GIRL

CHAPTER 26.

"A WOMAN who lives on our street, a Mrs. Deane!"

All the next morning, all that night, in fact, Howard Wescott's words, spoken so casually, kept pounding through Nancy's brain.

A Mrs. Deane!

Nancy knew Mrs. Deane was the mother of her own father, Caroline Glendenning Deane. Did Wescott know that this was her grandmother and was he playing a game with her? Was he setting a trap for her so that he could watch her reaction when she and Mrs. Deane came face to face for the first time?

If that had been true, Nancy felt sure she would have detected it in his speech. If he had no inkling that Mrs. Daneewere her grandmother, what an experience was in store for her.

The more she thought about it the faster her fingers flew through the great office files of the mills. She had cleaned up the accumulated correspondence, papers, and contracts, with such speed, that even Harriet Crosby remarked about it.

"I guess I'm a little excited" Nancy said, when Harriet had asked why she was hurrying.

She knew Harriet suspected she was excited about the man in the inner office. Just then Wescott came out, business like, serious. What an actor he was, how different he was now compared to the evening before, compared to the moment when he lifted Nancy up from the floor there in Ginger's untidy room, and took her in his arms to brush her tears away.

"Take a letter, please," he said to Harriet, and started dictating before she had time to reach for her notebook. Nancy listened to the dictation, to Wescott's quick, decisive words, his rather cold tone.

The letter was to a salesman Wescott told him that unless his business picked up immediately he might as well seek another job, that the mill wanted a real salesman, and that real salesmen were waiting for the chance to jump into his job.

The manner in which he clipped out the words, machine like, seemed to give Nancy a new insight into a side of his character she had not known before. He sounded almost merciless, and Nancy's sympathies at once were with the salesman. Perhaps he would lose his job. Perhaps he had a family, worries.

It was easy for Howard Wescott son of the president of the firm, with the advantages of the best education the country afforded, actually pushed into a lucrative position in his father's plant, to be hard on a salesman who wasn't making his quota.

Nancy thought of the money that Wescott lavished. He probably spent more in three days at his clubs, on his cars, on entertainment than the salesman earned in a month. For a moment she almost hated the man standing before Harriet Crosby's desk. He had his back to her so that she could not observe him closely, just as long as she pleased, as critically as she

GLACIAL DAM HOLDS IN INDIA

Simla, Punjab, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Punjab government received official information today that reports of the bursting of a glacial dam in Kashmir on the Shyok river are erroneous.

It was indicated the first report that the glacier had given way was based on a fire seen in the neighborhood, which was mistaken for a beacon light prepared to give the signal when the break took place.

A long series of bonfires on peaks had been prepared to carry news of an expected break in the dam, which is 17,000 feet above the sea and in an almost inaccessible region. The flood water had been forming since 1926, and a lake nine miles long was formed behind the dam of ice which is thought threatened.

FRENCH NAVY BOYS BREAK STRIKE ON LINER TO U. S.

New York, Aug. 14 (AP)—One hundred and sixty-five stalwart youths from the French navy got passage across the Atlantic aboard the steamer De de France which docked here today. They replaced engine room and deck hands who went on strike just before the liner sailed from Havre. Because the steamer is a regular mail carrier, officials of the French line appealed to the Government for aid in filling the vacant posts and the navy responded.

ROUND TRIP ATLANTIC FLIGHT PLANNED BY 3

Washington, Aug. 14 (AP)—Plans for a round trip Atlantic flight were under discussion today by three famous aviators, who came to Washington in connection with the proposed journey. They are Capt. Harry Lyon, navigator of the Southern Cross, which flew from California to Australia; Capt. William Newton Lancaster, British Royal Air Force, and Mrs. Keith Miller of Australia, both of whom flew from London to Australia.

Plans call for a takeoff from Los Angeles next year, the fliers to travel to Newfoundland by easy stages and on to London. They hope to fly from London to New York and then make another nonstop flight to Los Angeles.

EXPLORERS' BODIES FOUND IN FAR NORTH

Ottawa, Aug. 14 (AP)—Another mystery of the North has been solved by the Canadian mounted police who rallied today that the bodies of John Hornsby, explorer, and his two nephews, had been found in a lonely cabin west of Hudson Bay, death having apparently been caused by starvation.

For two years no word had been heard of the explorer and his two nephews, swallowed up in the silence of the wastes.

HOOVER'S LEAD INCREASES OVER SMITH IN NATIONWIDE POLL

NEW YORK AND WISCONSIN IN DOUBTFUL COLUMN

the exception of Cook County (Chicago).

La Follette vote of 1924 in larger cities is swinging to Smith.

Returns from 22 States, including Florida, Georgia of this unknown Virginia, tabulated up to yesterday, put Mr. Hoover in the lead over Governor Smith by 2232.

The vote is:

Hoover—63,816.

Smith—61,642.

Analysis of these figures lays the basis for highly interesting specula-tion.

FIGURES SIGNIFICANT

The outstanding features are the mighty swing of upstate New York to the Hoover camp, and the certain indication that the new vote this year is going to be so large that normal pluralities may mean nothing if the preponderance of this unknown quantity should swing in either direction.

In this respect the Wisconsin figures are especially significant at this stage, subject, of course, to revision when the more complete canvass has been perfected in the rural districts.

Percentage returns from 165 precincts, with the Milwaukee vote predominating, show a total of 917 against a total vote in the same category for Coolidge and Davis of only 1731.

This more than 100 per cent increase in the total may be merely an isolated and special spot, but throughout the entire country like indications prevail with respect to the increase in the popular vote on a very large scale.

Outside of New York city, Boston and Baltimore, Milwaukee and environs are the most promising spots in the whole Democratic setting today.

But when the inspector passes on to the rural districts and particularly stops at the women vote, Mr. Hoover is way out in front. This is specially noted in upstate New York territory, although in the larger cities Smith is holding his own.

The figures are not sufficient thus early in the canvass, to show very clearly whether the Hoover rural vote will be large enough to overcome the governor's big lead in Greater New York and the evident indication that Smith will poll a large majority in the cities of a number of more than country town size.

Owing to six large lead in Boston, Smith is now in front in the Massachusetts returns.

Smith's large Baltimore vote, also, shows him strongly in front in Maryland, while the Hoover rural vote is amazing in Baltimore counties. The Maryland totals yesterday were:

Smith, 2757.

Hoover, 2393.

The early Pennsylvania figures are somewhat disconcerting to the Republican chieftains, but they are entirely from the Pittsburgh district. They explain that the disaffected coal regions and the Allegheny County vote are responsible for the early Smith showing. The vote so far as it represents the State at this time, is:

Smith, 1241.

Hoover, 970.

WINS ILLINOIS

Illinois is in the Hoover column by a large lead, if the early figures are representative of the general sentiment.

Out of a total of 14,094 ballots cast, representing sixty-eight of the 102 counties, including Cook (Chicago), Hoover has a lead of 1254.

The vote in Illinois was:

Hoover, 7529.

Smith, 6275.

In the State senate, Hoover has 26 women elected to 7 for Smith, and Hoover 4161 votes, to 3774 for Smith.

Wet-Dry Fight in Ohio Today

Columbus, O., Aug. 14—Prohibition, bane of the lives of political leaders throughout the entire country, is the dominant issue in Ohio's primary election today.

Candidates for the governorship are to be nominated by both parties, while each party also selects two candidates for United States senatorship and in all the contests the wet and dry records and pronouncements of the candidates play a heavy part.

Eleven candidates are in the field for the gubernatorial nomination, and 13 candidates seek the two United States Senate seats which are to be filled.

Foremost among the candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination are Atty-Gen. Edward C. Turner, an avowed wet, and Myers Y. Cooper, ex-governor and Congressman James T. Begg of Sandusky, both named drys. Democratic candidates are Martin L. Davey of Kent, a dry, and Peter Witt of Cleveland, a wet, are the leading candidates for governor on the Democratic side. Witt attracted considerable attention in the campaign by his statement that "both the Republicans and the Democrats will think all hell has broken loose" if he is nominated.

Two seats in the United States Senate are to be filled. The term of Senator Simeon Fess has expired, and there is a vacancy caused by the death of Senator Frank B. Willis. Both Fess and Willis were Republicans.

Fess is unopposed for the Republican nomination to succeed himself, but there are six candidates in the race for the Democratic nomination.

The Morning John Did Not Blow the Big Shop Whistle

New Haven, Aug. 14 (AP)—Every morning at 6:30 for 10 years John Bosselli has blown the big factory whistle at the Woodruff plant in Mt. Carmel. To most residents the blast has been the signal to get up. To Bosselli's wife it was her husband's "all's well" signal.

Yesterday the whistle did not blow. Mr. Carmel got up a n usual—all but Mrs. John Bosselli.

'BIG BUSINESS' FOR FARMERS, HOOVER'S PLAN

Stanford University, Cal., Aug. 14—The injection of "big business" methods into the conduct of American agriculture will be Herbert Hoover's first contribution to the relief of the farm problem, should he be elected president.

Convinced that agriculture has suffered unnecessary losses through style, because published, Hoover will seek to organize American farmers into a series of gigantic co-operative units, one for each major crop, in an effort to eliminate waste improves marketing conditions, and to cut at production and distribution and finally restore farm profits.

SURPLUS CROP PROBLEM

The immediate relief problem however will include recommendations to Congress for the creation of a Federal Farm Board with a fund of $250,000,000 of government funds but regulated and controlled by farmers themselves. This board believes will solve the surplus crop problem.

In a talk to newspaper correspondents about his speech, Hoover told of an incident in the New York fruit growing district of Hudson valley, a necessity for injecting better business methods into the agricultural situation.

On one day, he said, 3000 cars of fruit reached New York city from California and 2000 more from Pennsylvania, although the city's demand totalled but 1000 cars. As a result, he added, the New York growers were mortified and prices collapsed. In an effort to save their fruit, the growers sent more than 1000 cars back and down the Atlantic coast, destroying the markets up all possible competition. One man travelled 17,000 miles and finally the fruit was dumped into a sewer.

DISTRIBUTION PROBLEM

Hoover has become convinced this sort of distribution and waste causes the farmers millions of dollars in losses every year. He will attempt to eliminate it by setting up machinery that will put information and co-operatives to handle market distribution and production problems.

The former engineer felt at home in his home here all day. He called off a proposed fishing trip to a nearby lake, so he could remain at home and receive hundreds of congratulatory telegrams sent him on his acceptance speech. He will leave Thursday night for return to Washington.

His schedule calls for a visit to Santa Barbara Friday morning and his arrival in Los Angeles at 1 o'clock. He will spend Monday at Topeka as the guest of his running mate Senator Charles Curtis, and then on to reach Washington in time to have breakfast at his birthplace Tuesday morning.

SMITH FINISHES WORK ON HIS ACCEPTANCE

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14 (AP)—Governor Smith had at least one important campaign task off his mind today—completion of his speech of acceptance of the Democratic presidential nomination to be delivered a week from next Monday night.

After winding up a long conference with his south and middle western party leaders, the Governor last night put the finishing touches on the address and cleared the way for beginning conferences today with party leaders, two of whom were pre-convention opponents.

Sen. Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, who had an important part in drawing up the law enforcement plank at the Houston convention, heads the list of prominent Democrats Smith has called in to talk over the situation. He was due in Albany today. Josephus Daniels will arrive tomorrow, to be followed by Gov. George of Georgia on Thursday and Sen. Wheeler of Montana on Friday. All are avowed drys.

Further than these discussions, Smith has no plans, but is undecided whether he will find time to make a week-end trip out of town for a rest before his notification.

The governor's speech formally accepting the nomination will be the second he has made as Howrac's one of his associates said, adding it would take about an hour to deliver, allowing for brief pauses. The word has been passed that Smith will devote all emphasis to his speech exclusively to the prohibition and farm relief problems.

Deplores Attitude of Raskob on Prohibition

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 13 (AP)—Answering a communication from John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Frederick I. Thompson, publisher of the Mobile Register, and other Alabama dailies, asserted to Mr. Raskob he regretted it was "most unfortunate" that the national chairman had injected the prohibition question into the national campaign. Thompson took sharp issue with Mr. Raskob that in this section of the country prohibition was regarded as "the damnable affliction" Mr. Raskob asserted it to be.

"The largest measure of the present prosperity of the Southern people is due to the free use of alcohol and its supporting laws," Thompson said, and "the highest type of our citizenship has advocated the prohibition laws in effect."

Peters Will Lead Fight for First Voters' Aid

New York, Aug. 14—John J. Raskob, chairman of the National Democratic committee, announced the appointment of Andrew J. Peters, former mayor of Boston, as chairman of the men's division of the Smith-Robinson League of First Voters. He will make his office in the Democratic national committee headquarters here.

Steals A Horse, But As A Thief He's Just A Flivver

Abington, Aug. 14—The first horse thief reported here in many years was sought today with the finding of an abandoned horse and buggy stolen in Fall River, 38 miles away.

The horsefleish and vehicle are the property of Samuel Oveir of Fall River and were stolen yesterday.

Fall River police said they knew the identity of the thief. Police and the old-timers here already dreamed dreams of vanished days of horse thieves, sheriffs' posses and tightening rope nooses.

HOOVER LEADS POLL IN THREE N. E. STATES

Herbert Hoover maintained his lead today over Governor Smith in the majority of New England states in the national straw vote being conducted by the Hearst newspapers.

Massachusetts and Rhode Island are the two states that rank in the present favor the New England vote, in the New England poll being conducted by the Boston Evening American in connection with the nation-wide straw ballot.

Governor Smith, however, leads Hoover by a substantial majority of all the votes of the states tabulated. This is due to the strong vote given him by Boston and surrounding cities, and also that of Providence, R. I.

Massachusetts, including Boston, rolled up a total vote of 7,307 of this number Hoover received 1400, to Smith's 2937. In 1924, 1,670 of the votes cast for Coolidge and 2291 for Davis.

The women this year who are taking a lively interest in the campaign voted 1049 for Smith, and 249 for Hoover.

While Vermont gave Hoover a comfortable lead over Governor Smith, in scattering votes over the state, the latter is leading in the vote-switching campaign which seems to be epidemic through all of New England.

SEES NEW CHINA AND JAP PACT

Williamstown, Aug. 14 (AP)—The present controversy over Manchuria between Japan and the Nationalist government of China recently will mean a reopening of Sino-Japanese relations, ruptured since 1896, G. Bronson Rea, publisher of the Far Eastern Review of Shanghai, told a round table group at the Institute of Politics today.

Mr. Rea said that on the expiration of the original 30-year lease in 1923 China officially notified Japan to get out, and early this year protested against the proposed Morgan loan to the South Manchuria railway on the ground that the 1915 treaty was invalid.

"If the 1915 treaty is null and void, Japan's rights in Manchuria are therefore without legal basis and the Portsmouth peace treaty. If China's contention be conceded, then Japan, to safeguard her rights, will be compelled to go behind the Portsmouth treaty and remind China of her secret alliance with Russia in 1896 which provoked the Russo-Japanese war."

SALES OF USED CARS GAINING

The close of the first half of the year finds the used car situation more favorable than it has been for many months, according to W. F. Hufstader, director of used cars for the Dodge Brothers Corporation.

"An excellent idea of the present public demand for used cars is found in the price of used cars purchased for the week ending June 30, which showed the lowest inventories on record since the first of January," said Mr. Hufstader.

"In that week dealers sold 5561 used cars. This is the second high week of the year and the highest consecutive week in the history of the Dodge company. The gain during the last seven days of the month when the greatest activity was outstanding and was a clear indication of the public's readiness to buy the right type of used cars."

Mr. Hufstader, after checking his reports, finds that the Boston district as making steady gains in used car sales.

"It has been a long time since reused car situation has been as favorable as it is today," said Mr. Hufstader, "and we at Dodge Brothers have every reason to believe that 1928 will be one of the best years on record."

Chief Inspector John J. Acton has taken charge of the investigation. The four men who were arrested at the time of Galvin's death, and Galvin, appeared in Quincy court and pleaded guilty to the charge of disturbing the peace. Their cases were placed on file.

Falmouth, Aug. 14—Drowned off the beach at Bryant's Point, North Falmouth, A. Hosmer Spencer, Jr., 7, of 216 South Lake ave., Albany, N. Y., lies unidentified tragically a day of play at the seashore.

With his mother, the boy had gone from the Falmouth Heights Hotel. The little boy wandered down in his bathing suit to play in the sand alone. Later his body was discovered and taken to the cottage, where Capt. Frank Covey and Frederick Fish of the Falmouth Fire Department, using a pulmotor, worked for more than an hour in an effort at resuscitation.

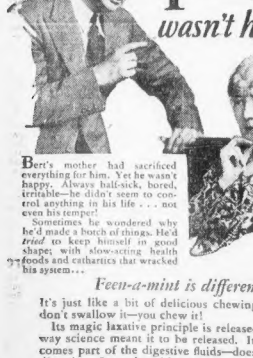
Dr. Straton Hears His Hotel Sells Liquor

New York, Aug. 14 (AP)—The Rev. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, was on the warpath today when informed liquor had been purchased in his newly acquired hotel near Greenwood Lake, N. Y. The clergyman, whose recent sermon criticizing Governor Smith drew the governor's fire, took title to the hotel six weeks ago for the Greenwood Lake Christian Assembly.

A reporter told Dr. Straton he had bought a quart of whiskey over the hotel bar. Amazed, Dr. Straton said he would end the lease of the place if the charge could be proved. Then he appealed to various authorities and was finally advised to swear out a warrant and have the place searched.

Dr. Straton had not indicated this forenoon just what he would do.

Even BERT'S Temper wasn't his Own



Bert's mother had sacrificed everything for him. Yet he wasn't happy. Always half-sick, bored, irritable—he didn't seem to control anything in his life . . . not even his temper!

Sometimes he wondered why he'd made a bunch of things. He'd tried to keep himself in good shape; with slow-acting health foods and cathartics that wracked his system...

BIG ROOKIE TO FACE INDIANS

THE Red Sox looks like a new ball club, now that [illegible]

THE visiting Indians are a staggering club. They are hanging in fifth place by an eyelash and show the effects of a tough year. Injuries have been pursuing the Roger Peck athletes since the first month of the campaign, when they made a dazzling start.

Most of their regulars are back now, but the club, naturally, is not full of pep. No team is that expects to fight for the flag and finds itself down around the cellar in mid-August.

BOSTON fans have not anything much to cheer about in the local setting, but there's plenty of baseball enthusiasm evident, just the same. The [illegible] in the National and the heavy pursuit of the Yanks by the Athletics in the American have made up in part for the shortcomings of the local heroes. The died-in-the-woolers go out daily to watch the scoreboard.

In the last full month, the Athletics have picked up six games on the umpires. The Mackmen won 24 games out of 25, while the Yanks were battling to get 13 out of 21. The champs appear to have recovered from the doldrums, but the Athletics, fresh and half games back, show no signs of giving up the chase.

The Cards' lead in the National has been cut to two and a half games, and the issue of the race will be decided in the remaining [illegible] Giants start today. In the last four weeks the Giants have won 19 and lost nine while the leaders were grabbing 15 and losing 13.

The Brooklyn Dukes, nine games [illegible] still have a chance. They had a better record than the Giants for the month, winning 16 of their 25 games. With two clubs fighting each other ahead, the champs of last year are not out of it yet.

ED MORRIS

This Red Sox star, who has been responsible for most of the Red Hose surges during the current season, is getting better every day under the tutelage of Bill Carrigan. The Sox manager is a wonderful developer. He gets the best out of his boys. They like to work for Lewiston Bill. Carrigan will have a great team yet.

YA KNOW, WHEN YA GOT A REAL FRIEND YA DON'T HAVE TO DO NO TALKIN' AT ALL. YA JUST SIT, THAT'S ALL. A GUY UNDERSTANDS THAT YA CAN'T BE TALKIN' ALL THE TIME. NOBODY'S FEELIN'S IS HURT. THAT'S ALL WHAT'S TO IT. WHAT'S THE USE OF ALL THE TALKIN'? IT DOESN'T GET YA NO PLACE
THAT'S WHAT I ALWAYS SAY TO MESELF. I LIKE TO SIT WITH A GUY THAT SORT O'UNDERSTANDS YA, TOO. I CAN'T STAND A FELLOW THAT YA HAVE TO TALK TO AN' ENTERTAIN ALL THE TIME. GEE, IF I HAVE TO TALK TO A GUY, I'M LICKED. WHAT'S THERE TO TALK ABOUT?
YEAH, WORDS JUST GO. NOBODY KNOWS WHAT THEY'RE TALKIN' ABOUT. HOW DO WE REMEMBER WHAT WE SAID LAST WEEK, NOT A WORD. NOBODY'S PUTTIN' IT IN BOOKS OR NOTHIN'.
I CAN SEE YOU'RE A GUY AFTER ME OWN HEART, 'CAUSE THERE'S NOTHIN' I LIKE BETTER THAN TO SIT SILENT. SILENCE IS MY MOTTO. IF I CAN'T SIT SILENT WITH A GUY, WITHOUT SAYIN' A WORD, THEN I CAN'T SEE WHAT'S THE USE OP BOTHERIN' WITH HIM, CAN YOU?
WELL, THAT'S WHY WE GET ALONG SO GOOD. WE DON'T CREW THE FAT ALL THE TIME LIKE SOME PEOPLE DO. WE CAN SIT IN SILENCE. WE JUST UNDERSTAND EACH OTHER. FOR INSTANCE, WE DON'T HAVE TO SAY TO EACH OTHER: "WELL, IT'S A FINE DAY TODAY, AN' YOU SAY: "YES, IT IS A FINE DAY TOO." IT DON'T GET US NOWHERE, DOES IT?
YES, SIR, SOOKY, I THINK YOU GOT THE RIGHT IDEA AN' I THINK YOU'VE HIT THE NAIL ON THE HEAD WHEN YOU'RE ROOTIN' FOR SILENCE. I THINK SOME OF THE HAPPIEST TIMES I HAVE EVER SPENT WAS WHEN WE WERE SITTIN' OUT SILENCE.

BEGIN TRAINING EARLY

By CONSTANCE CAMERON.

I BELIEVE it was Napoleon who said to a mother who told him that her child was but a year old and she had begun to train it: "Madame, you began a year too late." So many mothers labor under the tragic delusion that they can let a child run riot for the first five years of its life and be successful in correcting it from that period on.

The time to start good habits is in the cradle. Not a second later. Realize that everything which happens in a child's daily life is not only an event to him; it is the nucleus of a habit, good or bad. Character (which after all is built upon what a child repeats and practices daily) grows more rapidly in infancy and early childhood than at any other period of his life.

Habits are formed by practice, by the doing over and over again acts until they require no more conscious effort for their execution. But the repetition alone is not all. A child seeks to do things which give him pleasure, and the task before us is to give him activity to indulge in which will form constructive habits and at the same time give him extreme satisfaction in his own conduct. To insist upon the doing of certain things which annoy a child is destructive and tears down instead of building up.

By this, I do not mean that there are no undesirable things which must be learned and faced and gotten over with, but instead of the old command of "You do this because I say you must," with the accompanying resentful obedience of the child, let us try to build up such a firm foundation of interest in what is good and right and constructive that he will realize that each of us has, at some time or other, to form the habit of tackling disagreeable jobs and doing them as efficiently as possible in order that we may be free to enjoy the habits which bring us pleasure. Create an intense desire in the child for an activity which you wish to become habitual.

The mother of a six-year-old girl used to dread the day when it was necessary to shampoo the tiny head. Needless to say, the child dreaded it, too, and gave lusty howls to testify to her opinion of hair-washing in general. Now this mother didn't think hard enough about this matter to try to create in the child a desire for cleanliness, or pride in the appearance of her hair. She merely said: "Come on now. You are going to have a shampoo because I say so."

It took two weeks in school before it ever occurred to the tiny girl that there might be a reason why she should ever be glad that her head was clean and sweet-smelling. She came home one noon and said to her mother: "My! I'm glad my head was clean this morning." A nurse came into our room and looked at all our heads and sent Sammy Jones home because his wasn't clean. I'd have been awfully ashamed if I'd had to go out before all the kids because my hair was dirty.

Most unpleasant events in child life can be handled in this same manner if you but consider what pleasurable response will eventually be their's after the undesired act has been accomplished.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND.

THE trouble with modern marriage is that there is too much "self-expression" and independence in it, and too little reciprocity and good team work. There is too much "I-dolatrous" stuff and not enough of the good, old Lindbergh "WE!"

True RECIPROCITY is based on the following simple code. (Brides and bridegrooms, please copy.)

I'll ponder your back if you'll put the studs in my shirt.

* * *

I won't nag or chatter at breakfast, if you won't grouch or go into the silence after dinner.

* * *

I'll sit through a musical comedy without looking like a martyr, if you'll sit through a romantic movie without going to sleep.

* * *

I'll let you smoke your smelly old pipe in peace, if you'll let me revel in my rouge and my lipstick to my heart's content.

* * *

I'll serve the dinner hot, keep your clothes mended and do all the dish-washing, if you'll wash the car, mow the lawn and tend the furnace without growling.

* * *

I'll try to clinch the tooth paste from the right end, if you'll try to refrain from getting spots on the clean tablecloth.

* * *

I won't touch your desk or your safety razor if you'll keep your hands off my talcum powder and your cigarette ashes out of my pin tray.

* * *

I won't point out the virtues of my neighbor's husband, if you won't gaze too long or too admiringly at the flapper across the street.

* * *

I won't mope or lecture when you are out late at a poker game, if you won't raise a row when I come in late from a matinee.

* * *

I'll try to make the pies that your mother used to make, if you'll try to make the dough that my father used to make.

* * *

I won't do any back-seat driving in the car, if you won't do any efficiency expert stuff around the kitchen.

* * *

I'll curse you, wait on you, suffer with you, rejoice with you and play with you, if you'll pet me, wait on me, sympathize with me and jolly me.

* * *

This is the Code of True Reciprocity, which would make of any marriage a heavenly rest instead of an eternal punishment.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS

Well, here are things going with you, Senator Heflin?

CONCERNING BOREDOM

By LUCY LOWELL

I AM continually amazed—dismayed and wearied, as well—by the amount of hard toil, the inexorable labor of brain and brawn the best of us expend in going through the motions of recreation which does nothing to recreate any enthusiasm for living and which, indeed, leaves us bored and miserable.

We plan so continuously, expend so much energy doing things some body has said that somebody else said were sure to hold delight; we proceed with set smiles and a great show of energy to accomplish these senseless feats because everybody else is doing it or because we believe they ought to turn out all that is claimed for them, knowing all the while that we're having a rotten time of it and wishing to heaven we could be left to do what we would like to do in the way we would like to do it.

We spend long evenings with people who have no interests, hopes, ambitions, likings, experiences or thoughts in common with our own; people we do not care for and who care nothing for us—all in the name of sociability and because of a silly superstition that we must invite people whether we like to meet them or not.

And all the time there's an easy chair at home and a shaded light and a good book.

Why do we work so hard at having a good time, only to find ourselves defeated in the end?

Why don't we sometimes do what we would like to do, thereby getting some enjoyment out of life?

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 40 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any druggist.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

PARIS AMAZED BY A YANKEE'S ACTIVITY

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

We hear Paris was amazed by a Yankee's activity. This happened when W. C. Durant, former Boston "auto wizard" landed overseas and proceeded to deal in Wall St. securities via cable, wireless or what have you, to the jingling tune of 300,000 shares a day. Now Mr. Durant, a "real" Yankee, descendant of the famed Crapo family of New Bedford, is sailing again for Europe. Bullish interviews have in late years preceded Mr. Durant's departures.

From time to time in this column we have issued warnings to those buying special stocks on the strength of television development that they should "go slow." Our radio editor friend, Fred Toye, keeps in close touch with all new developments in the industry, and we had his valuable advice in consultation.

Now Herbert H. Frost, president of Radio Manufacturers' Association, announces upon his return from Buffalo from the first directors' meeting since his election last June that a special committee of leaders in the industry has been appointed to consider the best means of conveying the truth about the development of television to the public.

Rudolph Spreckels Maj. H. H. Frost

* * *

Major Frost says: "Television is the next great step in the development of radio art but the public must not be misled by experiments being carried on at this time. Practical television is still a few years away. The report of the special committee will provide the basis for a definite statement by the Radio Manufacturers' Association on television, defining the stand of the industry."

* * *

Major Frost, with a small group of manufacturers, formed the RMA in 1924 and he served as its president for the first two years, being returned to office this year because of his experience in undertaking an ambitious program of radio development. This organization now includes the manufacturers of approximately 95 per cent of the radio sets now in the American market.

* * *

Dr. F. A. Kolster, in charge of the research laboratory of Kolster Radio Corporation, is one of the best known authorities on radio. He went through the Harvard Technical School while working in the laboratory of John Stone on the bank of the Charles River, in the earliest days of "wireless," around 1906.

* * *

Dr. Kolster tells me he feels he has every reason to believe the radio industry will double its past record in point of sales and new scientific improvements during the next few years. So if you are "bearish" on television, you can be "bullish" on radio, if you wish.

* * *

Extensive research on the short wave beam transmitter is being continually conducted by the company, and Dr. Kolster looks forward with confidence to its increasing commercial adoption in the future for transoceanic communication.

* * *

By the way, Rudolph Spreckels, known as "the Sugar King," is Kolster's chairman of the board.

AT WORK ON RESEARCH

Chief Research Engineer of Kolster Radio, who studied at Harvard, is shown at one of his daily tasks in laboratory.

'Only Upon Request'?

GRAND RAPIDS GAS LIGHT COMPANY
GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN

28 October 1927 Public Utility Information
DOCKET No ASH ARBOR, MICH
IN THE MATTER OF
DATE 4/30/28 WITNESS

Mr. Arthur H. Stace, Director
Utah, Committee on Public Utility Information
212 West Huron Street
Ann Arbor, Michigan

Dear Mr. Stace:

We have received the package of 100 copies of the pamphlet "Manufactured Gas", kindly sent us by you. If you have any left after mailing your distribution to the schools and can spare us some more, we can undoubtedly place them to good advantage.

This permits us to inquire what sort of response you are receiving from the city schools of Grand Rapids. It occurs to us that if this response is not what it should be, that we ought to get busy here ourselves and see that some requests for copies are forthcoming." Utility spokesmen time and again told the Federal Trade Commission, in whose record this is an exhibit, that pamphlets were introduced into schools only upon request of the school officials. Chief Counsel Healy won admissions from propagandist witnesses that advertisements, letters of indorsement, and follow-up letters were used to bring forth these requests. When these measures failed, local utilities like this gas light company often worked on the school officials, it was testified.

TODAY

the movietone, delivering the same speech. The extraordinary device, recording personality and voice, had taken "a picture" of Mr. Hoover's speech during rehearsal a few days before the final delivery, and sent it East by air mail.

On August 22, Governor Smith of New York, delivers his address of acceptance, the movietone will simultaneously show the governor, and allow audiences in theaters all over the country to hear and see the governor speaking. The speaking will begin on the movietone the moment the governor begins to speak before his audience in New York State.

This is something really new in politics and in "publicity."

Years ago, Howard A. Colby, allaround man, found himself lessons to John D. Rockefeller, already an old man.

Doubtless Mr. Colby expected to outlive his pupil. Mr. Colby died yesterday, aged 57; Mr. Rockefeller, in his 90th year, is well, active, and fond of him.

Length of life depends on how you live, not on how much you exercise.

Theodore Roosevelt killed himself by unwise exercise, undergoing when past 50 such training as would have strained an athlete of 25.

Mr. Rockefeller prolongs his life by care and moderation. Wise Greeks wrote above their temple, "Nothing in excess."

The Rev. Dr. Straton, who attacked Governor Smith, the Democratic candidate for President, decides that he will not permit Governor Smith to reply to him from the pulpit of his, Dr. Straton's, New York Baptist church.

Dr. Straton would like to hire Madison Square Garden, or some other big hall, for the debate. Governor Smith may conclude wisely that in a debate with a brilliant clergyman it is almost impossible to win and, anyhow, "if you win, you lose," and let the matter drop.

Something new in labor unions: British railroad workers have voluntarily accepted a cut of $15,000,000 a year, including 2½ per cent cut for railroad clerks. Every railroad employee, from managing director to track walker, accepts a lower salary, and many jobs are abolished.

Over here we would make the public pay higher rates and meet the situation in that way.

SPRINGFIELD awarded $800,000 loan, due $200,000 November 14 and $600,000 November 20, to Salomon Bros. & Hutzler at 4.73 per cent plus $7 premium.

QUEBEC MINES SET UP NEW MARKETING RECORD

Establishing a new high record, the mines and quarries of province of Quebec marketed products during 1927 valued at $29,134,116, according to the annual report on mining operations issued by the provincial bureau of mines. The increase over 1926 amounted to $3,373,645, or 11.5 per cent.

State Street Notes

ST. JOHNSBURY & Lake Champlain annual meeting will vote on ratifying subleasing to Boston & Maine Pacific of leased line between Lunenburg and St. Johnsbury to Canadian Central.

REQUEST for a court review of the New Haven committee's state case will be filed shortly with appellate division of the State Supreme Court.

NEW England Power Association intends to build a dam one-half mile long at Littleton, N. H. in connection with its $10,000,000 superpower development.

PASCOAG Woolen Co. of Pascoag, R. I. is to be moved to Pittsfield, Mass.

MORMON FILM TO SHOW TREK TO WEST

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—I have always thought some day some film company would present an epic dealing with the history of the Mormons. There are few places of American history that are any more colorful or interesting, than the exodus of these people from Nauvoo, Illinois, across the country in wagons. I was reminded for the Pioneer Film Company, sponsored and financed by Salt Lake City, is undertaking its production of "The Exodus of the New World," a story of the Mormons traveling west under the leadership of Brigham Young.

George Fitzer has written a narrative which includes the crossing of the Snake river with a thousand wagons. All of these adventures are of course interesting, but they would come to naught, unless there was a heroine, colorful enough to carry the story. Still, they believe they have one in Mary Ann Pratt, who will be starred in this spectacular production.

Maggie Bloom at the end of this week for Salt Lake, accompanied by Ray Johnston, who will direct the production, and other members of the cast. This will be Marie's first separation from Kenneth Harlan since they were reunited after their stormy separation. The company figures it will take two months to make this picture for according to all reports, it is to be patterned after "The Covered Wagon."

WALLACE BEERY who chafed at the bit and was so unhappy when Paramount gave him a slapstick comedian, instead of a portrayer of dramatic roles, is being given his way with a vengeance. Wally is to be the leading man in "The Case of Lena Smith," Esther Ralston's next picture. Does Wally care? If they star me in "Mary Ann" He does not. All he wants is a chance to get away from pie-throwing, mad-slamming slapstick comedy. They tell me he is as happy as a lark and he is all enthused over the romance he has in this picture, which is to be directed by Josef von Sternberg. John Loder, who, only a few days ago arrived from England with monocle, spats and what not, will have the juvenile lead.

WE have had Mexican stars, we have had Italian beauties, we have had Spanish gals and swedish heroines but, so far as I know, there have been no Greek queens of the films. Strange too, because the Greek type of beauty is considered the most perfect and the Greek art and Greek mythologies speak of the classic features of these women, who escaped from Aristocle and a few other boys in the days, when philosophers were in vogue. Universal producers think that Elene Aristi, an exotic type of beauty and a Greek, has been discovered. Carl Laemmle, jr., and put under a long term contract. It will be interesting to see how she screens and with the Mexican girls, now so much the vogue in film circles.

LOOKS as if Dolores Del Rio will finally won out in her battle to get United Artists to permit her to play the little Spanish girl in "The Darling of the Gods." Dolores had a hankering to don Japanese making, but now she is home at United Artists thought a real lady from the land of cherry blossoms should have the role. In the movies persistence is the better part of valor, and a little jiu jitsu or, just before Miss Del Rio and Edwin Carewe departed, a contract was signed with Technicolor, and "The Darling of the Gods" in color. Furthermore, my informant while here that the picture will be made in Japan. Well, Japan would be a good place for a honeymoon. Maybe Mr. Carewe and Dolores will go there before they return to the U. S. A.

"A ROSE by any other name," no I am not bursting into poetry or paraphrasing Bill Shakespeare, but to me a minute, "The Admirable Crichton" becomes "The Conqueror," and it's to be made almost immediately by Famous Players-Lasky. Only a few weeks ago I mentioned that Sir James Barrie's play had been made some years ago by Cecil De Mille under the name of "Male and Female." Seems as if they won't let Sir James Barrie name his own play, now, John Farrow has written the scenario and we hope, oh we hope, it's more true to Barrie than was "Male and Female." Richard Dix will be starred, Florence Vidor will be featured and Mal St. Clair will direct.

"THE voice with the sparkle wins," someone once said. I am certainly waxing poetic this morning. Well, anyway, John Boles not only has a speaking voice that has appeared on the screen, but Boles has a singing voice that has taken him into any number of musical comedies. Therefore, it is the intention of letting John Boles escape, after he played in "The Last Warning." Therefore, he will be the trusty pen, made out a contract and prevailed upon John to slen right on the dotted line. John, who came west with Gloria Swanson, as her leading man two years ago, has decided to sell for now sell in the movies.

THEY seem to consider it a bit of a triumph over on the Paramount lot that Louise John Bargelis of "The Show Off" fame has consented to play a part in "The Canary Murder Case." We have seen Mr. Bartels for so many years as the "Show Off" that it's difficult to think of him in any other role. He plays a fur dealer in this case

'Invaders,' in Aerial Attack, Bid Fair to 'Wipe Out' London

London, Aug. 14 (AP)—Vital sections of London would be smoking ruins today if the imaginary bombs dropped during a giant mock air attack by the "Eastland" forces throughout the night and early morning had been high explosive shells, the invading contingent claims. If the attack forces meet the same success during the remainder of the week as they declare they achieved in their first onset, London will be completely wiped out theoretically.

They dropped abstract bombs on Whitehall itself, even on the Air Ministry, the soul of the air defense. The Buckingham gasoline depot was also bombed. The attackers contended that there were only six casualties. Thousands of Londoners with refreshments and phonographs remained on the hills around the metropolis all night to watch the spectacle.

BILLY'S 'DRUNK' AT SHUBERT

In the efficient American theater nothing goes to waste. When a good vaudeville performance has finally proved itself, it is sent out, the benevolent producers simply will not allow it to taste the dust of the road house. That is, not before it has been done over into an equally good musical comedy. To the Shubert comes "Sunny Days," slightly and delightfully reminiscent of vaudeville frivolity that is all the better for having emanated from last naughts French frolic called a few seasons back—"The Kiss In a Taxi."

Just as "Queen High" owed its substance to "A Pair of Sixes," so "Sunny Days" leans upon the pattern for its book. Many a musical comedy has languished for the lack of sufficiently exciting events to fiddle around with between song numbers. Not so "Sunny Days." It has "something doing" all the time; it has five amiable if not luminous stars; it has a noted producer, and much to look at—and admire.

GOES OVER BIG

It is said that the chief funny man, Billy B. Van, is on the point of retirement. That's too bad. The musical comedy stage has few comedians now who can do as Billy did last night. In a bit of pantomime that lasted for only five minutes Billy B. got drank. Not quickly nor boisterously, but gradually and artistically and very, very funnily. He did a one-man tragic scene in "Hedda Gabler"—beautifully. And afterward he came back to the party with vine leaves in his hair, brandishing a bottle.

Very much in the manner and very much admired, was Jeanette MacDonald, as the lovely lady about town. Blonde and lovely. The events of the evening whirled. Miss MacDonald, it seems, has a unique way of singing mirthfully about the ladies, she can sing!

PLEASING TUNES

Among the others: Douglas Leavitt and his hearty grimaces; Sid Silvers, mugging delightfully in the most preposterous lines; Carl Randall and his pretty dancing partner, Peggy Cornell, completely stopping the show; Audrey Maple, statuesque beauty of Ziegfeldian affairs, and Dick Lockwood, a truly funny girl—all of them making "Sunny Days" the gladsome stimulant that it is.

And the music, Hassard Short's production will be it. The tunes, Jean Schwartz's and Sidney Mitchell's, are pleasing and easy to take; the show is lavishly set, tastefully dressed and the chorus is a group of pretty, pretty girls. What more do you want?

BUSTER KEATON AT ORPHEUM

Buster Keaton, in his comedy hit, "Steamboat Bill, Jr.," will come to the screen at Loew's Orpheum this week, where he has all those that witness his latest effort in a continuous roar of laughter.

The story opens with Keaton returning from a boarding school, where he has been since a youngster. His father, who is a steamboat owner, has great things planned for him, but is keenly disappointed when he sees a collegiate sap alight from the train instead of the two-fisted giant he had anticipated.

His father, not discouraged, starts about to make a man out of his son, who immediately carries on a childhood love affair with the daughter of his father's rivals.

Vaudeville honors are evenly divided between Gertrude Campbell, the popular tenor, and Clinton and Rooney, who have their own orchestra to aid them in their inebriations act. Others on the bill are Pongini's Monkeys, Marsicy and Hadley, Otto and Orette, and Elliot and La Tour.

CLIVE TO OPEN IN NEW DRAMA SATURDAY NIGHT

The premiere performance of "The Bellamy Trial," will be given at the Copley Theater, next Saturday night. For this production, E. E. Clive, actor-manager at the Copley, has assembled the largest cast ever under his management. Among them are players who have earned notable reputations on the stage.

"The Bellamy Trial" is the collaborated work of Frank Carslon, then, for many years chief assistant Federal district attorney of New York, and Frances Noyes Hart. The play is an absorbing drama based on the trial of Susan Ives and stephen Bellamy for the murder of Mimi Bellamy, wife of Stephen.

Clive will be seen in one of the principal roles as will also Fred Eric, late star of the Players' Club revival of "The Beaux Stratagem."

GRETA GARBO IN SPY STORY AT LOEW'S STATE

Hidden factors of the great wars of Europe, the net of spy systems which fought silent, but deadly battles in the supposedly quiet times of peace form the background for stirring drama in the new picture at Loew's State "The Mysterious Lady," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture starring sobrie Greta Garbo, the plot is laid in the rival countries Russia and Austria in the days preceding the World War, and a thrilling romance is woven into the gripping drama of nations warring with the bloodless but deadly tools of espionage and intrigue.

Greta Garbo

Greta Garbo, as a beautiful Russian spy who falls in love with an Austrian officer whom she has disgraced, plays with feeling and distinction, making a captivating love character which in the hands of a less competent actress might have been utterly distasteful.

In her support, Conrad Nagel gives romantic touch to his difficult part. This is the first picture he has appeared with Greta Garbo.

Fred Niblo, who also directed Miss Garbo in "The Temptress," one of the Swedish star's first American pictures, has created the mood of this fine story from the pen of Ludwig Wolff, noted German novelist.

There are many spectacular scenes in the film version of this continental story. Edward Connelly, Gustav von Seyffertitz are other players in the supporting cast.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPER

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Their First Uniforms

A Proud City Buys Them for the Best Ball Players Among the Boys of Northern New England

Nearly everyone, as Lawyer Scott of Los Angeles told the Hoover convention at Kansas City, has a weakness for "the winner." Mr. Scott illustrated the observation by telling the story of Tom Sharkey's visit to a Baltimore "lobster palace."

They brought to Mr. Sharkey a live lobster which looked as if it might be the victim of an accident.

"Where's his other claw?" demanded the sailorman.

"Begging your pardon, sir," replied the waiter, "he's been in a bit of a fight, in the window there."

"Well," roared Sharkey, "take him back—and bring me the winner."

Just as no fair princess gave serious thought to Gene Tunney until he had first proved his championship, so no one in Worcester paid the boy baseball team of Post 5 much attention until they came home the other day regional champions of Northern New England.

The Worcester lads, who go to Cleveland this week to take part in the play-offs which precede the Junior World Series, represent one of the Legion posts of the Heart of the Commonwealth. Their home town began to take notice after their defeat of the Alfred, Maine, team, champions of Maine and Vermont.

They were dressed in makeshift costumes when they won the right to go to Cleveland, but thanks to the friendly interest of the Telegram-Gazette they will appear upon the Ohio diamond smartly togged in uniforms, including suits, shoes, belts, caps, everything.

No one who has seen the Worcester boys in action will be surprised if they not only give a good account of themselves this week but last to take part in the Series. None of them is over 16 years of age. They have a promising pitcher in Wilson Dunlop, who struck out 12 batsmen in the game with the Alfredians and allowed the State of Maine representatives but one hit.

These boys from the sandlots are the hope of the Nation as well as of the national game. The American Legion is to be congratulated upon its interest in them, Post 5 of Worcester upon its good fortune in backing the BEST boys' nine in this section.

COMMANDER BYRD DROPPING THE AMERICAN FLAG AT THE NORTH POLE

This little picture reproduces inadequately a fine painting by Einar Kverne, copyrighted by the U. S. Printing & Lithographing Co.

It is a picture, original or lithographed, that every patriotic American would like to frame and hang up where the children could see it.

Among all flags, the Stars and Stripes was first at the North Pole. First, Peary took it on foot, after years of determined struggle.

And then Byrd, courageous young aviator from Virginia, flew over the Pole and dropped another flag, the same fine Stars and Stripes.

This is a picture to make Americans proud, not of themselves, unless they have really DONE SOMETHING, but of their country's flag, and the men like Byrd, who represent the flag so well—some of them going to the North Pole, some of them doing honest, earnest, self-sacrificing and hard work here at home.

ARE YOU EDUCATED? TRY THESE QUERIES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE are many tests of "How much do you know?" Most of them are tests of how sophisticated you are, as hardly anyone can be expected to tell the capital of Kamchatka or to bound one of the rapidly fluctuating Balkan states.

Dr. Herman H. Horne, professor of philosophy and education in New York University, has, however, formulated a series of education tests designed to help any person to appraise his educational attainments accurately.

Some of the questions of Prof. Horne, and some which have occurred to me are indicated below:

Do I keep myself physically fit?

Am I functioning at the maximum of my efficiency or just getting along?

Is my body a servant or is it my master?

Do I earn a living for myself and my dependents or am I living on what someone else has earned?

Am I doing better every day or just going around machine-like in a circle?

Am I more anxious to preserve my own personal liberty or secure the personal liberty of others?

Am I keeping old friends and making new ones, or is my circle of friends gradually becoming less?

Am I a suitable life partner for another, or more anxious that that other be suitable to me?

Am I hospitable to opinions different from my own?

Am I loyal to my friends, my family and my country?

Am I constantly busy or just nervously active?

Do I love nature or am I blind to its beauties?

Is my standard of value possession, or ability to create?

Do I value an opinion simply because I have always had it, or am I constantly growing mentally?

Am I intellectually honest, or do I hold to those opinions which I deem expedient?

Am I good company for myself?

Am I happy now every day, or is my happiness something to be obtained in the future?

Can I enjoy a vacation and easily lay aside my business?

Do I appreciate only utility, or demand beauty also?

Will I stick to what I think is right in spite of all opposition?

Do I enjoy company that I can look up to or demand people around me that must look up to me?

Do I have class, national or race prejudice?

Do I enjoy children?

Is religion meaningless to me, or necessary?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

TRUE sentiment is a lovely thing.

It is the concentrate of all that is fine and noble in human emotion.

But sentimentality — that's something else again.

SENTIMENTALITY IS THE PINK SMOKE BY WHICH WE MASK REALITY. AND IT'S BAD MEDICINE.

For example, one should encourage a fine sentiment about some mothers, but it's plain tommyrot to be sentimental about all mothers.

SOME MOTHERS ARE UP-STANDING CITIZENS. SOME MOTHERS ARE SHIRKERS.

There's the truth. It's a most uncomfortable truth to face and it will make a lot of ladies mad. But the madness of a few ladies is as nothing in comparison with the misery caused by maternal shirkers.

And we'll never cure that misery until we cut out the pretty speeches about mamas and tackle the grim reality of laziness, ignorance and selfishness which underlies certain types of mothering.

We're sentimental about a lot of things besides Dear Old Mother. We're sentimental about Families in general. Families are a darling thing to think about and belong to—at a distance. But the truth is that family relationships raise more varieties of hell than Lucifer ever dreamed of. And we'll never have well organized, harmonious human society until we stop being sentimental about family life and learn how to manage it.

We're sentimental about Marriage. At present, the legal aspects of American marriage are all haywire. No department of our lives is in such dangerous disorder. But just try and discuss marriage in a businesslike manner and see how far you'll get. How far did Judge Ben Lindsey get?

We're sentimental about Patriotism. America is certainly one grand little bunch of humans, but the fact remains that we exhibit just as great a percentage of cupsedness, vulgarity, silliness and crybabyness as any other flock of bipeds. And we'll never outgrow these obnoxious qualities until we stop kissing ourselves on the neck and handing ourselves medals.

We're not only sentimental about our present—we're also sentimental about our Past. We insist that we've been 100 per cent perfect right from the jump. We bust into tears and huzzas over anything that came over in the Mayflower. Now I've seen a lot of ships and I never yet did see one that didn't carry a considerable number of guys that any chamber of commerce would be glad to get rid of. Why should the Mayflower be any exception? I don't believe it was. That's just more pretty pink smoke.

Above all, we're sentimental about ourselves. There's one subject before which the pink smoke rises continually in clouds and clouds of CLOUDS. Do we ever look at ourselves with a grim and searing eye? No indeedy! We always have some pretty little illusion to cover the horrid truth about ourselves. As a consequence, we continue to be a nuisance to ourselves indefinitely, when one good round with truth would put us out of our misery.

And there's the whole case against Sentimentality. IT PERPETUATES PESTS BY PUTTING A GLOSS OVER THEM. YOU CAN'T GET A CESSPOOL BY GROWING PANSIES ON TOP OF IT.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

True joy is a serene and sober motion; and they are miserably out that take laughing for rejoicing: the seat of it is within.—Seneca.

The man who will live above his present circumstances in a great degree of living, a little time, much beneath them.—Addison.

Times of general calamity and confusion have ever been productive of the greatest minds. The purest ore is produced from the hottest furnace, and the brightest thunderbolt is elicited from the darkest storm.—Colton.

You should forgive many things in others, but nothing in yourself. —Ausonius.

A man must be excessively stupid, as well as uncharitable, who believes there is no virtue but on his own side. —Addison.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

THERE is a matchless plan; no man denies, whose mind is clear to see, an ordered universe, although it lies thrice veiled in mystery. Yet groping, seeking, searching, many go unsatisfied always, and clamorous for the answer none may know who tread this early maze. Sometimes they see the honest fail, the good reel backward in defeat, and virtue's self, in melancholy mood, before sin's ranks retreat. But always doubt must falter and give place before the nobler dream, while through all mystery and maze men trace the Plan designed.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—The Ol Clo's man sing-songs his way through New York streets and around the subway kiosks in a manner suggesting he is about the humblest of lowly workers. "I cash clo's" is his threnody. If you hesitate, his eyes brighten into a flame of shrewdness.

He is as eager as a bird dog trailing a warm scent, but when you show him clothes you have for sale his enthusiasm congeals. He appears to be on the verge of tears with disappointment. Certainly you do not expect him to pay even the most trifling sum for such rags?

He is the slickest of bargainers. He will protest, cajole, walk away in disgust and almost threaten, but in the end he somehow forces you to accept whatever he offers. His shabby shyness rarely fails to make a dent in the stoniest heart.

Yet the Ol Clo's Man is usually just a good actor. During off hours he may wear tony $150 garments fashioned for him by uptown tailors and ride about in his limousine. It is a business in which alert men make from $2000 to as much as $25,000 a year.

There is on Elizabeth st. an Old Clothes Exchange operated much on the order of the Stock Exchange with seats from $5 to $25. More than 500 Ol Clo's men bring their daily collections there to be bartered to men who refurbish them to ship all over the world.

Old clothes are shipped weekly to London where they are renovated and distributed to Africa, Turkey and India. Many are later worn by negroes in Africa. One man has a four-story building and two six-story buildings entirely filled with old clothes for weekly shipments.

The Ol Clo's Man scans obituary columns and mails polite cards to widows suggesting a call to inspect what cast-off garments of the deceased may be for sale. These are generally secured for a pittance and taken to the Exchange for a sharp profit.

A FAMOUS Ol Clo's man operates in the vicinity of Columbia University. Students are often in need of a little cash and are willing to part with some excellent wearing apparel at a ridiculous price. The Ol Clo's man is sympathetic, for, as he says: "I know how it is. I gotta boy at Yale." He is reputed worth a half-million, but his appearance suggests he is on the last lap of rejourney to the poorhouse.

NEW YORK taxi drivers are displaying greater caution. Few are zipping around the corner on one wheel or "beating the lights" at crossings. A stringent regulation provides that when a taxi driver receives a summons for a traffic violation his license is automatically suspended. He is deprived of a livelihood until his case is decided. And that often takes weeks.

DRIVERS of expensive automobiles are rarely haled to court. Traffic officers say they are the most careful of all and most considerate of traffic about them. And they never give a policeman back talk. That counts plenty.

TAXI drivers have private names for traffic cops. One on fifth ave. is known to the guild as "The Snapper," and he is said to be the hardest boiled in town. Once he waves a driver to the curb, all is lost, and a moment of polite conversation will change him. Another in Times sq. is called "Old Iron Tongue." He rarely talks. He just hands out a summons and waves the recipient away. And then indulges the luxury of a sardonic chuckle.

MAE WEST seems to have eclipsed Texas Guinan in achieving Broadway celebrity. The buxom blonde star of "Diamond Lil" has issued a brochure containing excerpts from the turgid press puffs of those who think she is not only hot but sizzling. Miss West is a rough and ready lady of the type who seems made for those big mink coats and whose lovely hard boiled banter tickles the Broadway mob. She also has a biting sarcasm and loves a verbal scrap.

Good Old Flag

the men and women that live in it, you are doing good work for that flag.

There are other good flags on this world, flags to be proud of. Our flag, one of the youngest among the flags of great nations, has in its record all that this country can ask.

It has never gone to war, except when attacked. It has never floated above an army fighting in an unrighteous cause.

It represents the most prosperous, most powerful people on the earth.

That we are BETTER than any other race, we cannot say and SHOULD not say it, if we could prove it.

But we have done wonders in our short 142 years of independent national life.

The American flag is one of the youngest among the great flags of the world. How far will it go in glory and honor, if the people of this nation prove worthy of it?

Kipling wrote a magnificent poem about "The Flag of England," filled with patriotism that moves deeply even those of other nations.

The British flag had been torn down in Trafalgar Square by a mob. Kipling wrote that you could not judge the flag of England by Trafalgar Square. You must go far to the Southern Seas, or far to the North, where other flags were not known, and THERE you would find the flag of England.

It was really beautiful, but we can tell Kipling in a most friendly way that the first flag that the REAL far North, the North Pole, peak of the world, ever saw was the Stars and Stripes, and the NEXT flag that the North Pole ever saw was also the Stars and Stripes.
